The use of CCTV is regarded as a high-risk activity under GDPR. Data subjects, e.g. anyone captured on your CCTV systems, have the right to be informed when it comes to their personal data being recorded

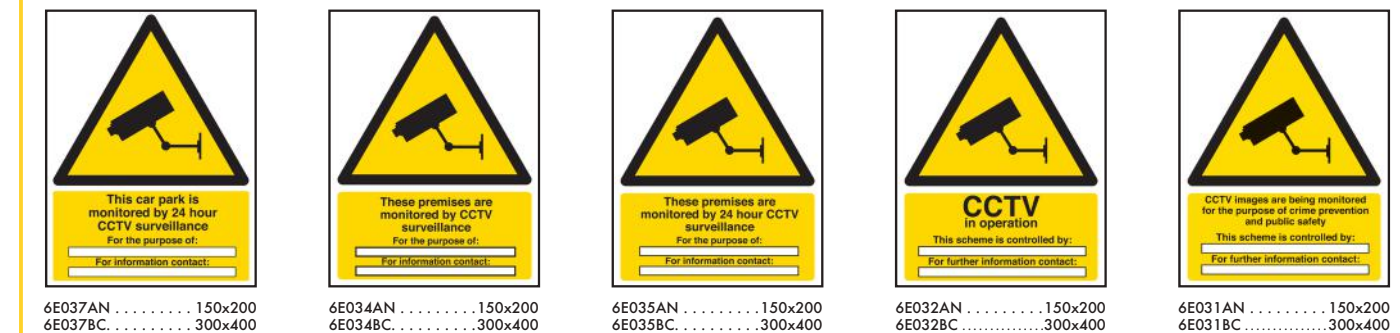

- ▶ CCTV signs should be placed at all entrances where CCTV is recording and throughout your premises as a constant visual reminder
- ▶ You must let people know when they are in an area where a surveillance system is in operation
- ▶ The most effective way of doing this is by using prominently placed signs at the entrance to the surveillance system's zone and reinforcing this with further signs inside the area
- ▶ Use CCTV Signs in addition to GDPR compliant signage (see GDPR CCTV Write On Signs below)

GDPR CCTV Write On Signs - Add Your Details To The White Boxes

To remain compliant with GDPR, make sure your signs:

- ▶ Contain the purpose that recorded images are being used for - e.g. crime prevention & public safety
- ▶ Detail the organisation operating the system - e.g. your company name
- ▶ Who to contact about the scheme - website address, telephone number or email
